"Thy word is a torch unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalms 119:105

I suppose the biggest challenge we face right now is the election of Donald Trump. An old paradox says, "Good is the enemy of Best." In other words, when some people get good at something, they stop. There may be room for improvement, perhaps even much improvement, but stopping when it is only good enough, the best is never developed, never accomplished, and never realized. Why? Because it didn't seem important enough. What prevented the best was that good stood in the way of something better. Being satisfied with good never allows the best to come to life. See TRUMP page 7

How much longer Will Ireland be Irish?

By Jason M Robb J.D.

Will Ireland remain Irish? This question is often asked by the true sons and daughters of Ireland. And who is Irish? It's the sons and daughters of IRELAND - not migrants from India. The children of countless generations share the same blood, culture, and heritage. Ireland (Hibernia) means "land of the Hebrews." It's called that because the Irish and all of Europe can trace their roots to the lost ten tribes of Israel. However, that could quickly change. There has been an effort throughout all of Europe to change the racial demographics of the various countries by flooding traditional white countries with blacks, Asians, and Middle Easterners. Ireland is no exception.

In Ireland, the left Marxist politicians (the same that we have in America) have created policies to replace the Irish with foreign invaders. Wikipedia states,

"The increase of Ireland's nonwhite population started with the Irish boom of 1997 to 2009 is due in part to the laws which had governed Irish citizenship since the creation of the Republic of Ireland in 1937. These laws, which granted citizenship jus soli, were, for a period, interpreted by the Department of Justice as allowing parents who were not Irish citizens to remain in the State based on the rights of their Irish-born citizen children."

In 2001, Mary Harney, the Duty Prime Minister of Ireland (in Ireland this office is known as The Tánaiste) visited five African countries, granting automatic citizenship if they migrate to Ireland. This policy ended in 2007 following a decision of the Supreme Court.

But much damage had already been done.

By 2002, it was reported that the number of births in Ireland's national maternity hospital for non-nationals was 15%

The Minister for Justice at the time, Michael McDowell, said that between 40% and 50% of non-EU nationals who gave birth in Ireland were doing so to gain Irish citizenship for their children.

In America this is called Birthright Citizenship.

In April 2004, an internal Department of Justice memo revealed that in August 2003, the Masters of Ireland's maternity hospitals had warned that pregnant women were arriving in Ireland from abroad with their "antenatal notes." In October 2004, a European Court of Justice ruled (Case C-200/02) that the non-European Union parent of a citizen of the Union had a right to reside with that child in the EU."

The census show that by 2011 there were 58,697 people of Black African ethnicity and 6,381 people of any other Black background resident in the Republic out of a total population of 4,525,281.

Wikipedia says, "Ireland's President Higgins has used his time in office to address issues concerning justice, social equality, social inclusion, anti-sectarianism, anti-racism, and reconciliation.

In March 16, 2023, in his St. Patrick's Day address a rise in "racism and xenophobia" and called on people to stand with all vulnerable people around the globe. President Higgins also stated, "A poisonous xenophobia, new and recalled, has taken hold in so many places." Higgins said it is in "our power" to create a just and inclusive world where all people are treated with dignity, respect, and justice.

"We have to ask about how racism gets going, how homophobia does its destructive work, how isolation tears at a person's wanting to exist, how important every person is. These are important issues, they are not merely emotional issues,"

St Patrick

By Jason M Robb J.D.

As we head into March, the grass begins to grow, the daffodils bloom, and everything appears to be green. The luck of the Irish is at hand. And with March, we can't forget the great Christian Patriarch, St. Patrick. Here in America, we celebrate St. Patrick's Day on March 17. St. Patrick has had more effect on Ireland's history than any one person. Legend tells us that he was born in Bannaven of Taerniae near Dumbarton, in the most Northern Roman province of Celtic Britain. His father was a deacon, and his grandfather was a priest, both of whom were part of St. Nnian's Mission. His mother is believed to have been the sister of St. Martin.

Patrick came to Ireland in 389, during the reign of Niall. At the age of 16, he was taken captive by a band of pirates from the north of Ireland. He was taken and sold to the Antrim chieftain named Milieu. There, he was tasked with herding the flocks in the valley of the Braid, around the foot of the mountain, Sliab Mis. For 6 years, he was given this task. Here, almighty God used young Patrick, who admitted he had forgotten God and had wandered into sin.

In his confession and writings, he wrote,

"I, Patrick, a sinner, the most rustic and the least of all the faithful, and in the estimation of very many deemed contemptible had for my father Calpornius, a deacon, the son of Potitus, a presbyter, who belonged to the village of Bannaven Taberniae; for close thereto he had a small villa, where I was made a captive.

"At the time, I was barely sixteen years of age. I knew not the true God, and I was led to Ireland in captivity with many thousand persons according to our deserts, for we turned away from God and kept not His commandments. We were not obedient to our priests, who used to admonish us about our salvation. And the Lord brought us the indignation of His wrath and scattered us amongst many nations even to the utmost part of the earth, where now my littleness may be seen amongst strangers.

"And there the Lord opened the understanding of my unbelief so that at length I might recall to mind my sins and be converted with all my heart to the Lord, my God, who hath regarded my humility and taken pity on my youth and my ignorance, and kept watch over me before I knew Him, and before I had discretion, and could distinguish between good and evil; and He protected me and consoled me as a father does his son."

After six years of being a sheep herder in the wilderness of Ireland, he had learned to trust God, he knew the importance of protecting his "flock," and he learned the Celtic language. God had molded young Patrick with the desire of freedom and to shape him into the man God needed. Patrick learned to put his trust in the Lord. At that point, he had a dream, and in that dream he was to travel two hundred miles to a seashore where he would find a ship. It was there, he escaped and made it home. However, he was not at peace. Ireland was now a part of him. The people, the language, the love of the land was now in him. While at home, he again had a vivid dream and had a vision. The vision of the voice of the inhabitants of Focluit Wood, adjoining the Western sea. It appeared to be crying in one voice,

"Come to us, O holy youth, and walk among us." -
"With this, I was feeling touched, and could read no longer: I then awoke."

He knew he had to prepare himself for the mission of sharing the Gospel to the Irish. Racially, these were his fellow brothers and sisters. They were part of the lost tribes of Israel, now dwelling in Ireland. Ireland is also known as Hibernia, meaning the "Land of the Hebrews." Patrick left his home to study for the ministry in Gaul and studied theology at the School of St. German, Bishop of Auxerre. He was commissioned Bishop and soon traveled to Ireland to spread the good news of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Contrary to the beliefs of many, Patrick was not a Roman Catholic. In fact many protestant churches throughout Europe include images of St Patrick.

For example, the stained glass of Patrick shown above is in the cathedral of the Protestant Church of Ireland located in Armagh, Northern Ireland.

According to Andrew Gray D.D., in his 1897 book The Origin and Early Christian History of Christianity in Britain, he was a minister of the Gallican Church, which was independent from Rome.

In 432, he returned to Ireland with the zeal to preach to his racial kinfolk the wonderful news of Jesus Christ, their kinsman redeemer.

One of his first converts was the King himself. With true devotion, he preached the Gospel from North to South. He is said to have built about 360 churches, baptized about 12,000 converts, and ordained many Deacons, Priests, and Bishops. In 454, he established his principal dwelling at Armagh, which remained the seat of the Primate of the Church of Ireland for many years. He lived to see the whole country Christianized, and after a long and devoted life, he, according to Archbishop Usher, fell asleep in the year A.D. 493.

The stained glass image (left) of St. Patrick in the Church of Ireland located in Armagh, Northern Ireland has a special interest to those of us who know our Christian Israel Identity.

This image shows St. Patrick wearing a breastplate. We have enlarged it (below).

This breastplate is the same as the breastplate worn by the high priest of ancient Israel with the four rows of precious stone. A description of this breastplate shown here, worn by St. Patrick, is recorded in Exodus 28:15-30. END

Another politician, Irish Prime Minister Leo Varadkar, on October 31, 2023, speaking in the Irish parliament, stated, "Civil service is very white...it needs to change...we need to target ethnic minorities...to recruit a generation of young people of those growing up in Ireland to be people of color to."

End Wokeness on X has a compilation of Irish politicians making anti-white comments from their parliament, with one stating the old Ireland that he grew up in as "very dull, white, pasty."

In the Irish Examiner, a recent article published on January 23, 2025, titled "Ireland must address its role in the colonialism that leaves nations in the global south in dire poverty" stated, "As a state which largely arose out of the ashes of colonialism, we have a unique moral responsibility to confront this reality by enacting policies that move towards a fairer global order."

These are just a few examples of the hatred towards White Ireland by some of the politicians and the Irish media at large. In addition to these traitorous Irish politicians, they have been working with NGOs (nongovernmental organizations) in Ireland to implement social changes such as immigration, anti-white policies, and pushing the sodomy agenda. For example, there are over 30,000 NGO's in Ireland alone. These NGOs push for programs to have refugees from nonwhite countries come to Ireland and resettle there. This is a legal way to change the racial demographics in Ireland, and this has been going on for years.

In 2018, as reported directly from Ireland, "The Humanitarian Admission Programme 2 (IHAP) will allow Irish citizens of foreign birth, program refugees and beneficiaries of international protection (those with refugee status) to apply for immediate family members to join them.

Under the scheme, which opens on May 14, people from Syria, Afghanistan, South Sudan, Somalia, Sudan, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Central African Republic, Eritrea, and Burundi (the top 10 major source countries for refugees as listed by the UN Refugee Agency) will be entitled to apply for family reunification - thus paving the way for Irish citizenship.

According to Ireland's Central Statistics Office, 2022 census, revised question on Ethnic Group/Background introduced several new ethnic groups, such as: Roma, Indian/Pakistani/Bangladeshi and Arab.

- 77% identified as White Irish.

- 94,434 people identified as Indian / Pakistani / Bangladeshi.

- 20,115 were identified as Arab

- There were more males than females in each of these three groups.

- Compared with 2016, people in the Other Asian ethnic group almost halved to 44,944, which may be due to the introduction of the Indian/Pakistani/Bangladeshi category.

- The number of people identifying as Chinese increased to 26,828.

There are hundreds of migrant camps around the country in Ireland, and many of them are literally occupied by foreign soldiers from the Middle East. Irish cities no longer look like traditional Ireland, as the cities are beginning to resemble third-world countries in the Middle East or Africa. The white Irish population in Dublin Inner City in 2006 was 64.8 %. In 2022, it was 43.1%. It's interesting to note the same thing is happening in America and all of our traditional white European nations. You can't build or maintain a first-world nation (code word for the white nation) with third-world people. Because of this, the cities are no longer safe for the Irish. Rape of white Irish women is on the rise, and machete attacks are now a new crime.

Anyone connecting the dots?

As in America - the strength of Ireland does not come from diversity.

And as this continues, the Irish people are getting fed up and becoming more vocal. In 2023 and 2024, there have been massive

Massive Irish Lives Matter demonstration In Dublin - May 2024

A Simple Observation about Cheese

And its Spiritual Message

By Rev. Thomas A. Robb

I have been thinking of writing a short essay about cheese. I wondered what kind of reaction I would get from my wife if I told her I was going to write about cheese. Her reply: "What? Oh my goodness! You have been spending too much time on the computer."

Maybe she's right?

Come Visit us!

Whether you live on the East Coast, West Coast or somewhere in-between, the next time you visit this area you are welcome to attend the Sunday morning church service of the Christian Revival Center.

And OF COURSE,

if you live in Boone County or nearby you are encouraged to visit the Christian Revival Center on a regular basis. The Christian Revival Center is not TRANS or LGBTQ friendly. The congregation of the Christian Revival Center would like for you to come and visit us. We meet each Sunday morning at 11 am. On the first Sunday of the month we meet for fellowship and potluck.

You don't need an invitation. THIS is your invitation.

What is the message we can learn from cheese?

I always liked the mild Colby cheese. As a child - I called it rubber cheese. I know that sounds silly. But I was only about 5. I told my folks, "I want rubber cheese." They had no idea what I was talking about. But at some point, they figured it out.

About two years ago, Muriel invited friends over for a dinner party.

She likes doing that!

She gets out nice dishes, silverware, and sometimes candles, making it as pleasant as possible.

Before the meal, she sets out hors d'oeuvres of crackers, bits of broccoli, carrots, and a variety of cheeses. Among the cheese was Wisconsin sharp white cheddar cheese. I usually stayed away from sharp cheese, but this time I took and ate a piece, and I liked it. I then took another and then another.

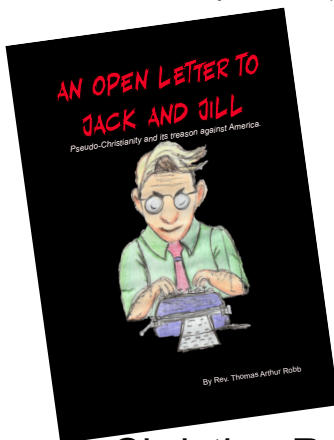

On the next trip to town, I bought a block of sharp white cheddar cheese. It soon became my favorite snack. The "rubber cheese" didn't have the zing the sharp white cheddar cheese had.

But after a while, the sharp cheddar cheese seemed to lose its zing, and I wanted the extra sharp or the seriously sharp cheese.

I was on a slippery slope trying to get the sharpest

How does this apply to the election of Donald Trump?

Let's see.

We certainly supported Donald Trump's election, and I did vote for him. However, the downside is that our people are prone to complicity. They got something good, but if America is to survive, good is not the best, and in fact, for that reason, good may not actually be good.

It only seems good for the moment.

No doubt, many throughout history have understood this strange phenomenon of good vs. best. Even Thomas Jefferson highlighted this in the U.S. Declaration of Independence, stating, "All experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed."

This statement was written in July 1776, when the founding fathers were hoping to stir their countrymen to rally for independence. Jefferson is telling (perhaps even warning) us that although there may be things we don't like, we accept them because this comfort is more enticing than engaging in what Patrick Henry stated was the "great and arduous struggle for liberty."

Jefferson, as well as many others, were concerned that these American children of Europe were in what we would call "their comfort zone."

It is like the story of the new preacher at a small country church in the Ozarks. On the old wooden front porch, he is visiting one of the church members. The old hunting dog is lying on the wooden floor of the porch, and suddenly, the dog whines a little and then goes back to sleep. A few minutes later, the dog whines again and then settles down. After doing this repeatedly, the preacher says, "What's wrong with your dog?" the old man says, "He's lying on a nail." The preacher replies, "Why don't he move?" The guy says, "It doesn't hurt enough yet!"

That has always been the case for Mankind.

The comfort zone is just too comfortable!

It may hurt a little, and in a strange way, we may even enjoy complaining—but it doesn't hurt that much!

That is kind of what has happened in America and all our white sister nations of Europe. The progress of modern living has made us comfortable. And there is nothing wrong with comfort. We all strive for it, and we want to see our children comfortable as well. Parents work to bring comfort into their children's lives. They want their children to be well-fed, well-dressed, and warm on those winter nights when the cold winds are sweeping down from the north.

But if we get too comfortable - we get lazy.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise: Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler, Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest, (Proverbs 6:6-8).

The Nanny State is a trap that leads to Communism. It is so enticing!

Evidently, Jefferson is concerned that this comfort will stand in the way of something even better - preserving what George Washington called "our dearest liberties."

Over the years, America has moved toward socialism and has become what is commonly called the Nanny State — even those who oppose the Nanny State still kind of like the comfort the Nanny State provides.

The Nanny State is a trap that leads to Communism.

It is so enticing!

"There are wicked men among my people. Like those who make nets for catching birds, they set their traps to catch people," (Jeremiah 5:26).

We are in this trap because of "wicked men" or what we today would call the "Deep State," a global empire that hates our country, hates our Christian faith, and hates our people.

Over the years, many have attempted to warn

See TRUMP page 8

the people. But the people refused to listen. Working as a team, my wife and I have been doing our part for the past 60

Sen. Joseph McCarthy

Was one of the first to battle the "Deep State." His patriotism was demonized.

demonized for it.

Today, his name has been used as a slur, and anyone who is exposing the treason of the Deep State is likely to be accused of promoting "McCarthyism." You can read a biased report about Joseph McCarthy on Wikipedia and other internet sites. My wife and I had the honor of knowing one of McCarthy's secretaries, Larry Lent, who mentioned me in her autobiography My Travels Through This World, in which she wrote this complimentary statement. "At a Patriotic gathering in Arkansas I met Tom Robb, a fine Christian gentleman. He asked if he could interview me about Senator McCarthy. Lo and behold, I was written up in the Ku Klux Klan newspaper with a picture of myself and the American flag."

Of course, there were others with a much smaller platform than McCarthy. There was the Dan Smoot Report, the John Birch Society, and Gerald L. K. Smith, among others, giving warning. But the people didn't listen because life was good.

But then things started to get bad - really bad! And now they are beginning to listen.

Michael Goodwin, writing in the January 12th edition of the New York Post, said this.

"The world has now seen the 'Trump Effect' on full display. A glance across America and Europe leads to an unmistakable conclusion: Revolution is in the air.

"The failures of democracies are sparking internal upheavals.

"Thankfully, spasms of violence and bloodshed are few, but a toxic brew of overbearing governments, shrinking freedoms, and undeniable decline is producing demands for big changes.

A common thread from California to Great Britain, France and Germany is that liberal underpinnings have morphed into sloppy socialism, unchecked immigration, cultural clashes and restraints on critical speech.

Collectively, the conservative blow back reveals that the time allotted for an indulgent detour has expired and a new consensus is taking shape, whether entrenched leftists like it or not.

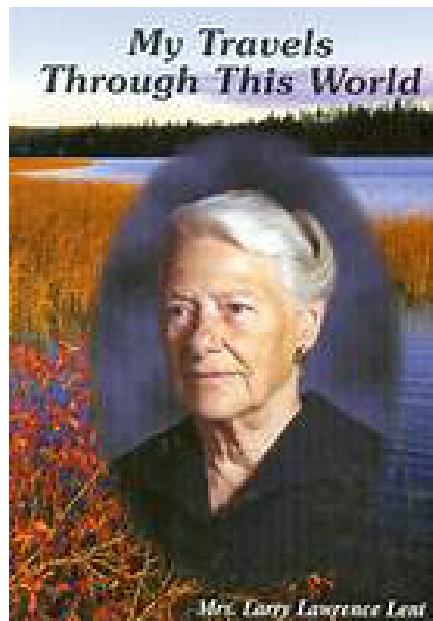

You can thank Donald Trump and the 77 million Americans who elected him for this development."

So, yes, Donald Trump's election has been a big victory and is tipping over "the apple cart."

But this is where we must be careful, or we will see the good destroy the best. Why!

Because ultimately they are fighting for the wrong thing. We must recognize it is a start in the right direction, and this pot that has gotten stirred is a direct results of the political activity surrounding Donald Trump. However, they still haven't put all the dots together. The "dots" are how racial demographics are changing America. Even if mass deportations remove illegal aliens, we are still being flooded with millions of "legal" nonwhite immigrants who still vote differently than White Christians.

It appears that most people who supported Trump did so for the wrong reasons. They want a better economy, cheaper prices, better jobs, and more money in their pockets and in the bank.

That is not bad.

I would like more money in my pocket also and I am sure you do as well.

The Bible tells us that the "love of money is the root of all evil." Money is not evil in itself, but making decisions based on money may have an evil result. It doesn't mean you are evil, but it could bring an evil into your life.

A good example I often point out is that people will move across the country for a better job and more income.

That is not necessarily evil, but if people move (regardless of job or income), it should be to a place that will provide a better environment for their children.

So Trump is now president, and we have something good that is making us happy. But this good is of no value unless it morphs into an awareness that America's foundation really had nothing to do with money in the bank or beautiful trade deals. America was great because it was a European nation planted in this great North American continent.

From the time our forefathers settled in Jamestown and Plymouth, America was a country that was built on two twin principles:

America was - Christ-Centered!
America was White Centered!
That is what made America great!

We must not become complacent thinking Trump is in the White House - we won!

As a nation, we must not become settled and comfortable in the trap. We may have all the great economic blessings a person could ever ask for and still die a spiritual death as the ugly monster of White genocide marches on.

There is no way out unless we, as a people, become Christ-centered and White-Centered again. Remember, you can't build a first-world nation out of third-world people!

That, my friend, is our job, and our CRUSADE and it should be the Crusade of all White Christians Nationalists to be a voice in a dark world that needs the light of Christian Revival. If we want America to be truly great again, then it must be Christ-centered AGAIN! And it must be White-Centered AGAIN! And it begins by making these the principles that guide our lives! END cheese I could get.

So I considered, "This must be how sin gets control of our lives." It starts our mild, seemingly harmless - but Jesus warns us that sin is like leavening. When we accept sin - thinking, "It's not that big of a deal," we may suddenly discover that the slippery slope is now controlling us.

And we feel hopeless, thinking there is no escape.

However, if we fight this sin in our own power, we will be defeated. The river and mountain of sin are just too wide and too big.

There is a song with these words, "If you got any rivers you think are uncrossable? If you got any mountains you can't tunnel through? God specializes in things thought impossible. He'll do for you what no other power can do!"

That is what happens to us - we become trapped in a life of "sharp cheddar cheese," and we are convinced there is no escape.

But the uncrossable river and the high mountain we can't tunnel through isn't always sin. Sometimes, it is just the heartaches and struggles of life that burden us down.

Unfortunately, these burdens can cause depression, and in this weakened state, some will, as they say, "fall from grace." But, remember, grace is not what you fall from - grace is what catches you and delivers you from the slippery slope.

Jesus tells us that whether it is sin or simply the heartache and struggles of life that seem to beat us down - he is the power that will help us cross the river and tunnel through the mountain.

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls." Matt 11:28-29.

Sometimes, people confuse the word yoke, thinking that Jesus is asking us to carry an extra burden.

But the yoke is put on an Ox to make it easier for it to pull its load. Without the yoke, it would become almost impossible.

Life can be tough, with seemingly unbearable struggles.

Jesus is telling us. "Listen up guys, life is tough, you will have all kinds of challenges, burdens and temptations. But I am here to help you. You will still have some dark and difficult days, but my yoke will help you find rest."

Put your trust in the Lord (Prov. 3:5-6) and you will bounce back from every difficulty and challenge like it was only Rubber Cheese. END

Greetings Pastor Robb: - Jan 3, 2025

Your telephone call this morning made my day. A great way to start the day. I had just done my habitual house blessing to start a new year.

As usual, Seattle is rainy and dark until about 9 am. I had just rolled over with a blanket over my head. Then my phone rang and I groaned. Then I heard your voice and I leaped up and flew to my phone flinging the blanket aside. So good to hear your voice. I can't believe I can still move that fast at 78.

Well I felt so good I stayed up and knew it would be a good day and a better year.

Trump needs our prayers. I believe God is using him to turn America around but only God can truly keep it great.

If America doesn't turn around the radical left will make it hell on earth. They never rest and are always at it.

They are already downtown protesting again. Good Grief! Such miserable and ugly people.

This once beautiful city is now a filthy, unsafe ghost town. Our downtown businesses have closed and moved away. Our entire city council is far left and even includes antifa members.

I pray God will guide Trump and his administration and our people awaken.

Hello to the Robbs:

Hope this finds you all in the best of health and good spirits.

The snow finally did find us. Thought we might miss it, but not so. Received at least a foot.

Out poor goats were terrified. Didn't know what it was and were not about to step on it. They wouldn't even go get a drink because they would have to walk through the snow to get to the stream. Enjoyed the Cowboy article, the one about Steve Foot and Identity getting a boost, Simple Thoughts and especially the one that said My Pronouns are I/Told/You/So.

Dear Torch:

A few generations ago married couples had 6, 8, 10 or 12 kids. They filled jobs in the various farms, and in iron, coal, and manufacturing industries. There was no "need" to have immigration on a constant basis.

Immigration as we know it today is done under the guise of "benevolence," but the real intent is voter registration.

So sad to see that asylum seekers were treated like gold and were put up in hotels while our American homeless (such as those in North Carolina) got treated like they were trash and many allowed to freeze this past winter.

Jim C/ME

Dear Christian Revival Center:

Thank you for sending me the January issue of The Torch. I want to stay on the mailing list.

There are hundreds of thousands of White Christians that also love our people and our nation. But they are afraid. That is why your work is so important. Not everyone has the ability, courage or talent to do what you do. Through the love and grace of Jesus, we will prevail.

I didn't know the Department of Education was a Communist front. That is why parents need to home school their children.

I am sure the Christian Revival Center will continue to grow and reach multitudes with the truth of the Gospel.

May the Lord continue His blessings upon you, your family and the church.

demonstrations by the White Irish demanding their politicians end these policies that are destroying Ireland.

Irish women no longer feel safe. Racial aliens have invaded their country. Calls for a return to traditional Irish culture is considered racist and nonwhite gangs are roaming the streets.

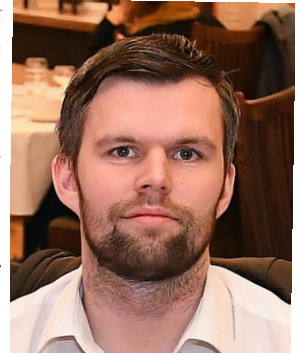

YouTube influencers and activists such as MichaelOKeeffe #IrelandBelongsToTheIrish are constantly uploading videos of the changing racial makeup of the cities, the disastrous policies of the Irish politicians, and the attacks on the Irish people. And it appears the White people are getting fed up with being betrayed. El Pais News reported that a recent survey of 7 out of 10 Europeans believe their country is accepting too many migrants, with Ireland coming in with 78% of citizens believing there are too many migrants.

But doing that could cause you to be considered a participant in a hate crime. In West Belfast, anti-immigration signage is treated as a hate incident by the police because the signage says, "Irish Lives Matter."

Gerry Carroll, a member of the Northern Ireland Assembly and a spokesman for the socialist "People Before Profit's" said, "We are under no illusions that which is directly counterpoised to movements against the oppression faced by black people and other ethnic minorities."

Is it too late for Ireland to reclaim their land? Only time will tell, but there are some signs that the Irish are willing to fight for their land, help change the disastrous nonwhite immigration policies, and stand up to the Irish traitors.

In addition, President Trump's executive order to stop foreign aid positively affects Ireland because open-border NGOs are getting defunded, and now giant companies are canceling their DEI programs. END

In early February, (2025) actor, film director and Patriot - Mel Gibson was on the Sean Hannity Show. Hannity expressed his sorrow that Gibson lost his home in the Los Angeles fires. Gibson, without expressing any anger or self petty demonstrated a noble character (He is a traditional Catholic unaffiliated with the church in Roman) when he stated. "Well Sean, we come into the world with nothing and we can't take anything with us. What happens in between is just a bumpy adventure."
