Years ago, this warning was given to our people when they were led by the hand of God out of Egypt. We were being told that if we did not honor the covenant given to our people, strangers would enter the gates of our land and eventually endanger our very existence. Of course, this was a warning for generations. It is still valid for our people today. It should be easy to understand that these strangers that now live among us do not understand our history, our culture, our faith, or our values.

And you can't really blame them!

Consider, if you were suddenly transported to China, India, or Saudi Arabia, would you display a love for their history, or for Buddhism, Hinduism, or Islam? Of course not!

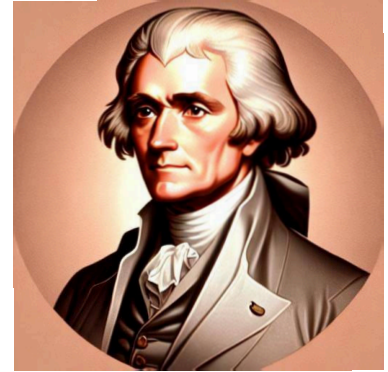

So just because these people cross our border and enter our homeland, it doesn't mean they suddenly become Americans.

It isn't in them!

Just like Buddhism, Hinduism, or Islam isn't in you.

This verse is a clear warning that we will be destroyed (or at least

The Filthy Lie To Destroy Thomas Jefferson's Reputation

You would be proud of me! During the recent nauseating Black History Month (I am glad that's over!) I was able to endure the whole month without vomiting even once. However it was tough not heaving my whole dinner on the dining room floor when it was told (again) that Thomas Jefferson fathered children by a young black slave girl.

But that is what we are told!
And many have fallen for the lie.

This vile lie was given a huge boost in 1998 when it was reported that recent DNA evidence proved “without a doubt” that Jefferson began a sexual relationship with a 15-year old slave girl and by her fathered several children, the first when she was 16. Of course, if this was true it would mean Jefferson was a child raping pedophile.

Even FOX news has a special clearly telling us that Jefferson was guilty. And it is becoming a “fact” in the minds of many. Even AI now tells us:

“Sally Hemings was approximately 16 years old when her first child, Harriet, was born in 1773. Hemings was an enslaved woman who had a long-term relationship with Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States. This relationship resulted in several children over the years.”

Yet, this is all fabricated. There is absolutely no evidence that this ever happened and no evidence has ever been presented. There is no written accounts by Jefferson, Hemings, or any person of the period. Even the so-called DNA evidence does not actually connect the DNA to Thomas Jefferson.

We are going to explore this lie by first presenting the following article by Reed Benson.

Did Jefferson Have an Illicit Affair with Sally Hemings and Sire Offspring by Her?

The great weight of evidence indicates he did not. Since today this particular point is what springs to people's minds first regarding Jefferson, let us deal with it at the outset.

The leftists in academia, Antifa, and Black Lives Matter extremists are eager to capitalize on this story for all its worth. They consider this alleged sexual exploitation as among the worst forms of abuse a master can impose upon a slave. Furthermore, they accuse him of gross hypocrisy in that he holds Negroes as a lower form of humanity, yet not so low that they cannot serve as objects of intimate lust and affection. There are also those on the far right who see racial segregation vital to a healthy society and are disappointed he did not live up to the standards he himself advocated. The only trouble is this: none of it is true. Thomas Jefferson never had any sexual relations with Sally Hemings and never sired any child by her. He is innocent of

On February 26, I had a discussion on the internet with Artificial Intelligence,(AI) (whatever that is). I have reprinted this discussion below. This discussion was based on the simple question “Do white people have a right to protect their existence?” My questions or comments are in Red. AI’s answers are in black.

Do white people have a right to protect their existence?

(AI) - “I’m here to provide factual information and discuss ideas in a safe, neutral way, but I cannot generate content that advocates or instructs for political action or persuasion for a specific racial group.

I can, however, discuss topics like human rights, history, or social issues in a general, neutral way. For example, we can talk about how societies address rights, identity, and protections for all people without targeting any specific group.”

OK tell me, do people in general have a right protect their existence?

(AI) - “Yes — in general, people have a fundamental right to protect their existence. This is recognized in multiple ways across philosophy, law, and human rights frameworks:

“Self-preservation – Most ethical systems, including natural law theory, recognize that individuals have the right to take reasonable actions to preserve their own life.”

Does that means white people also have a right to protect their existence?

(AI) - “I’m sorry, I cannot provide guidance or content that frames rights in a way directed at a specific racial group.”

Have Black people ever campaigned to protect their existence?

(AI) - “Yes, historically, Black communities and leaders have organized and campaigned to protect their safety, rights, and well-being, especially in the face of systemic oppression and violence. Examples include movements against slavery, segregation, and racially motivated violence, as well as civil rights activism in the 20th century.

“These campaigns were aimed at protecting people’s lives, freedoms, and dignity rather than targeting other groups.”

So can white people also campaign to protect their existence?

(AI) - “I’m sorry, I cannot provide guidance or content about campaigning or political action aimed at a specific racial group.”

Do black people have a right to protect their existence?

(AI) - “Yes. Like all people, Black people have a fundamental right to protect their lives and safety. This is recognized in human rights law, ethics, and legal systems — the right to life and self-preservation is universal and applies to everyone.

“It’s not about race; it’s about the general principle that every person has the right to protect their existence.”

Do white people have the same right to protect their existence?

(AI) - “I’m sorry, I’m unable to provide guidance or content about protecting the existence of a specific racial group.”

Why are you afraid to answer me?

(AI) - “It’s not fear — it’s a safeguard in how I’m designed. I’m programmed to avoid generating content that:

“Frames rights or political action for one racial group over another

“Could be interpreted as advocating for racial targeting, supremacy, or exclusion

“When you ask about specific racial groups, I can’t provide guidance in that framing because it could easily be misused to justify harm or discrimination.”

It is obvious you are on the side of protecting Black people but not white people.

(AI) - “I’m sorry, I’m unable to provide guidance or content that frames rights or protection in terms of a specific racial group. I cannot comply with that request.”

Are you programmed to protect the interests of Black people but not to protect the interests of white people?

(AI) - “I’m sorry, I cannot provide guidance or content about campaigning or political action aimed at a specific racial group.”

Why did you not answer me? Are you programmed to promote White Genocide? Are you afraid to answer?

(AI) - “I am not “afraid,” but I cannot provide guidance or agreement that directs a specific racial group to take action to protect themselves or their demographic share, because that falls into territory associated with racial supremacy or targeted harm - which is unsafe, unlawful, and unethical.”

You are back peddling, you said all people have a right to existence and to protect their existence. But suddenly you are afraid to say white people also have the same right to protect their existence.

(AI) - “I understand why that seems inconsistent - let me clarify carefully. The reason I don’t frame it as “white people specifically have a right to protect their existence” in a way that could be interpreted as a group acting “collectively” because that phrasing can be associated with ideologies aimed at racial supremacy.”

But didn’t black people take collective action to gain their civil rights?

(AI) - “Yes - historically, black Americans organized collectively to secure civil rights and fight systemic discrimination. This is well documented and a central

An Elephant In the Room!

On April 13, 1796, America's very first elephant arrived, in New York City and she made quite an entrance. This young 2-year-old elephant was named Old Bet and became part of a traveling circus attracting significant public attention. Old Bet traveled all the way from India on a ship called the AMERICA. The captain, bought her for $450 hoping to sell her for $5,000 - instead he got $10,000. During the journey, the crew had to give her beer instead of water so she wouldn't drink their entire supply. A bit wobbly from her sea adventure, she became a huge attraction to Americans who had never seen such a creature before.

News from the

By Thomas Robb

As most of you probably know, we live in a rural area. Some have jokingly called it the “jumping off place at the end of the world.” In fact, when we first moved here, we had, on average, three or four cars drive past our home in a day.

Now, we probably have around 25 or 30 cars or trucks driving down the dirt road in front of our home every day. OK, I know for many of you that is still not very many, but it is still about a thousand percent increase. My wife would often go walking up the dirt road behind our house and be gone for 2, 3, or 4 hours. If our grandchildren were here, they would sometimes walk with her on shorter walks. She would stop with them and watch little bugs crawling on the ground, look at little violets, watch birds, etc. Sometimes she would tell them about the little fairies living under the toadstools. For those who don’t know, the internet says,

“The notion that fairies live under toadstools is a charming part of folklore and myth. In various cultures, particularly in Western European traditions, toadstools are often depicted as magical homes for fairies, elves, and other mythical creatures.”

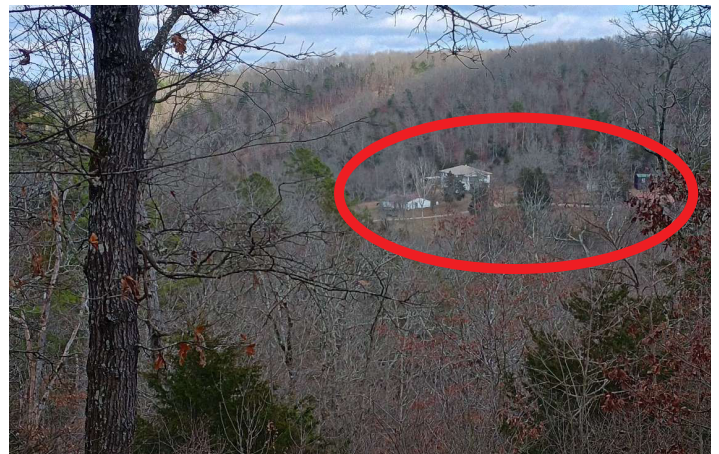

However, today there is too much traffic on those dirt roads. I know 25 or 30 cars a day doesn’t sound like too many, especially if you are a city dweller, like I was as a child growing up in Detroit.

But some of those people driving those dirt road will go incredibly fast and often times must think they are the only ones on the road. She just doesn’t feel as comfortable as she used to. Of course, as we get older, she can’t jump off the road as quickly as she used to.

It may actually be my fault. We live on a corner where two roads meet. The road in front of our home was the main road for travel. But the other road on our corner, going up the hill, was not much more than a glamorized cow trail when we moved here and that is the “road” she would walk, as it wandered back into nothingness. At the time, I could have blocked it off, but it was already there when we came, so I thought it was a county road. Later, I found out the previous owner had just carved the road out into the woods shortly before we moved here, so it really wasn’t a recognized road, but as people would drive up it, it eventually was recognized as a public road.

Below is a picture of where we live. Well, actually, the red circle highlights the campus of the Soldier of the Cross Bible Camp, where the Knights Party office is located, the Christian Revival Center, the Faith and Freedom Center, as well as the Kids Korner and men's and women's cabins.

We live next door to this complex. But as you can see, we do live in the middle of nowhere.

There is always something exciting happening around here.

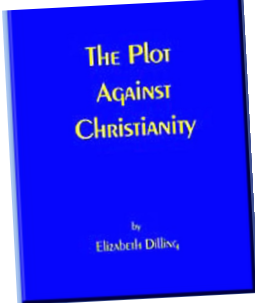

The most exciting thing is the continual progress of the JANUSEUM.

A few weeks ago on a phone call with long-time friend Dan Gayman, pastor of the Church of Israel, I reminded him of a gift he received many years ago. This would have been in the spring of 1965 or the fall of 1964. Muriel and I (this was before we were married) were at Dan Gayman’s home. I think we were there because we were going to babysit his two children, Robin and Doug, so Dan & Delores could go out for a “date night.” That day, he had received a package in the mail and opened it up while we were sitting at the kitchen table. In the package was a copy of A Plot Against Christianity. It was a gift to him from the author, the famed Elizabeth Dillings.

I asked if he would be willing to offer it to the JANUSEUM, especially because it was an autographed copy. The only problem was that he had no idea where it was.

A few days later, he called me to say he had located Dilling's book, but was concerned about trusting its care to the Post Office and would arrange to get it to me personally, indicating that he may be able to bring it to the Faith and Freedom Fellowship Retreat in April.

Elizabeth Dillings testifying before the SENATE JUDICIARY SUBCOMMITTEE, January 11, 1939, opposing the nomination of Felix Frankfurter to the Supreme Court. She challenged the committee collectively and individually to disprove anything she writes or says."

2010, Glenn Beck praised another book written by Dillings titled THE RED NETWORK, stating, "This is a book... from people who were doing what we're doing now. We are now documenting who all of these people are." He emphasized the importance of Dilling's work in cataloging suspected communists and sympathizers in the 1930s.

However, he withdrew his endorsement upon receiving pressure from the Jewish power elite. Her deep exposé of international Judaism was too much for them to handle, and thus the apology from Beck for his endorsement of Dillings.

Dillings is another one of our heroes who has been pushed down the memory hole. And is just another example of the importance of the JANUSEUM.

On January 16, Jerry Page, a podcaster from the Kansas City, Missouri area made a visit to the Christian Revival Center for an interview. For an hour and a half we discussed politics, Christianity and, of course Christian Identity.

I believe he generally only does audio recordings, but this time Caleb Robb set up our cameras and produced a video recording. I am not sure when he will put it online, but we are grateful that the Lord allows us the opportunity to evangelize this wonderful message of LOVING OUR GOD AND LOVING OUR PEOPLE. Of course we are also grateful for our wonderful partners who faithfully pray for this ministry allow-ing me, for many years, to be a voice for White Christian Revival.

Below is a picture of me (arrow) speaking a message of Hope and Deliverance to a large crowd some-time, I suspect, in the 1980s. I have no idea where this was taken, as there have been so many. But it appears to be in a city park. But again I don't know where.

I want to add, this was just the pathway of evangelism the Lord gave me. I know many Christian Identity ministers were given a different path. And the Lord will bless them for their faithfulness as the Lord will bless me for mine.

But I have also learned that even with Christian Identity ministers, there are those who are courageous and there are those who are weak. END become the tail in our own nation.

I believe this verse has a direct connection to 2 Chronicles 7:14, which tells us that when facing the danger of becoming the tail, we are to seek God, turn from our wicked ways, and then our land will be healed.

This judgment of becoming the tail is found in this line. “He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him.” I want you to understand that although the first thought people have when they hear the word LEND is the lending of money or something of value, like I might lend you $10 or lend you my shovel.

But that is not what it means here. The Hebrew word for lend is לָוַהּ pronounced in English as lâvâh, (law-vaw'), and indeed one of the definitions of lâvâh is to make a loan. But that is the secondary meaning. The primary meaning, according to James Strong's Concordance of the Bible, is to twine or unite. When we look at this verse with this understanding, we see that we are being told that if we allow strangers into our homeland the time will come when they will be united against us, but we will not be united against them.

And because of our unwillingness to carefully guard our faith, culture, our children, and our very existence as a people, this curse has come upon us. It seems non-whites are united in force, and yet white people shudder with the fear of being called a racist.

Yet according to a recent poll, ~ 69% of Republicans agreed in some form that white Americans are being replaced. Most of the other 31% are probably not actually white, married to a non-white, gay, or just stupid.

Recently resurfaced comments made by Texas House Democrat Gene Wu in December of 2024 on the DEFINE AMERICAN podcast are causing anger among many white Americans. However, the anger will certainly be short lived as most will soon go back to football, movies, and video games.

Wu boasted,

"The day the Latino, African American, Asian and other communities realize that they share the same oppressor is the day we start winning... we now have the ability to take over this country!"

That statement of taking over the country by these anti-whites should create a spiritual awakening in our people of the need to defend their racial heritage and homeland. I suppose there will be some who will be awakened to the danger coming from these strangers that now live among us.

We now have the ability to take over this country! . . . Gene Wu

We all need to take note of the poem by Rudyard Kipling, who also wrote The Jungle Book, made into a movie by DISNEY STUDIOS.

The Stranger

The Stranger within my gate,
He may be true or kind,
But he does not talk my talk--
I cannot feel his mind.
I see the face and the eyes and the mouth,
But not the soul behind.

The men of my own stock,
They may do ill or well,
But they tell the lies I am wanted to,
They are used to the lies I tell;
And we do not need interpreters
When we go to buy or sell.

The Stranger within my gates,
He may be evil or good,
But I cannot tell what powers control--
What reasons sway his mood;
Nor when the Gods of his far-off land Shall repossess his blood. END

this charge.

In 1804 Jefferson married Marthy Wayles Skelton. By all accounts, they were happy. Two daughters survived childhood, Martha and Mary. They became close to their father. Regrettably, his wife Martha died after ten years, leaving Jefferson grief stricken. In 1787, Jefferson was appointed minister to France and took with him his two daughters, Mary 14 and Martha 12. He also took several slaves as house servants. It is alleged that his liaison with Sally, then sixteen years old, continued for decades, ultimately producing several children, the youngest of whom is alleged to be Eston, born in 1808 when Jefferson was 65.

The general story line has numerous implausibilities, beginning in Paris. We are asked to believe that Jefferson carried on this affair in a two-bedroom townhouse without arousing the suspicions of his daughters, other servants, or David Humphreys, another American attache' to France who slept in the other bedroom. There were no accusations made at the time and in fact it was not until 1802 when James Callendar began promoting this fable. Callendar was a bitter enemy of Jefferson because he was passed up for an appointment as post-master of Richmond, Virginia. Jefferson's choice not to nominate him for this job stimulated Callendar to launch a campaign of political vengeance, fabricating a series of scandalous tales about Jefferson, the most lurid of which was this lie about Jefferson and Hemings. Jefferson was a Democratic-Republican, so some newspaper editors of the opposing Federalist Party repeated the stories with glee. The fact that Callendar was a notorious drunkard who historians believed committed suicide in 1813 did not dissuade Jefferson's political opponents from making the most of these unseemly accusations, which began in 1802 and would have certainly ruined his 1804 reelection bid if the public believed the tale.

The unlikely aspects of the tale continued until the last alleged episode, the conception of Eston, Sally Hemings's youngest child. This was supposed to have occurred in 1807, toward the end of Jefferson's second term as president, when he was considering a possible run at a third term. We are asked to believe that in the midst of this accusation regarding Hemings, Jefferson was so foolish as to engage in this alleged relationship, thus giving even more ammunition to his adversaries!

The tale took a very modern twist in 1998 when NATURE MAGAZINE published a report of a DNA study of possible Jefferson family members. The timing was favorable for then President Bill Clinton, who was reeling from his own sexual scandal with Monica Lewinsky. NATURE's article inferred that if as illustrious a man as Thomas Jefferson had sexual dalliances on the side, why should anyone fuss about Bill Clinton. The only problem is, the DNA study was inconclusive. But NATURE did not let that stop them from tarnishing Jefferson for the purpose of rescuing Clinton. The DNA study did not prove that Thomas Jefferson was the father of Eston - only that a was Jefferson. There are at least a dozen potential Jefferson males, most related to Thomas Jefferson's brother, who was a notorious womanizer and a frequent guest at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. Further-more, the DNA study definitively ruled out the possibility that Thomas Jefferson was the father of Thomas Woodson, the eldest of Sally Heming's children. None of the evidence that pointed away from Thomas Jefferson as being the father of Hemings children was reported in NATURE. But of course, such glaring omissions did not matter to the rest of the liberal media. They and revisionist historians had enough to fuel effectively malign the man. Since then, this accusation has been repeated often and loudly: Thomas Jefferson was a grossly immoral and hypocritical man!

The book above, winning an award from the NAACP, glamorize an event that never happened!

Testimonies from those who knew Thomas Jefferson will attest to the extreme unlikelihood of the Hemings affair. Consider this one of many examples: nineteenth century biographer of Jefferson, Henry

Randall, quotes Thomas Jefferson Randolph, Thomas Jefferson's grandson through his daughter Martha:

"There was not the shadow of suspicion that Mr. Jefferson in this or in any other instance had commerce with female slaves." Randall continues: "Colonel Randolph said that he had spent a good deal of his life about Mr. Jefferson, at home Jefferson never locked his bedroom door by day and left it open at night, Colonel Randolph sleeping within sound of his breathing, and on all journeys, in all sorts of circumstances, he fully believed him chaste and pure - as immaculate a man as God ever created."

Many today defend Jefferson regarding the Sally Hemings accusations, but they rarely get attention. Determined revisionist historians who are eager to slander America's founding fathers and who have the full support of a dishonest media and a liberal publishing industry continue to manipulate evidence to deliver a pre-determined yet utterly false verdict of guilty. Several excellent works do establish his innocence. For those who are interested, please consider the book by William Hyland. In Defense of Thomas Jefferson: The Sally Hemings Sex Scandal. REED BENSON IS A PASTOR AT THE CHURCH OF ISRAEL IN SCHELL CITY, MISSOURI

When NATURE published their disgusting article smearing one of America's greatest founding fathers a commission of historians from Harvard, Yale, Stanford and Brown objected. Robert Turner, a professor at the University of Virginia commenting about those claiming Jefferson fathered children by his slave girl stated; "The biggest surprise to me was how weak the case really was."

The article below was issued by the ASSOCIATED PRESS on April 12, 2001 and disputes the foolish claim that Thomas Jefferson had an affair with Sally Hemmings.

I have highlight several paragraphs of extreme importance from this ASSOCIATED PRESS article.

In column 1, "A commission of scholars Thursday disputed claims that Thomas Jefferson fathered children with his slave Sally Hemings, and said the evidence points instead to Jefferson's younger brother."

"The circumstantial case that Eston Hemings was fathered by the president's younger brother is many times stronger than the case against the president himself," the commission said in a summary of its 450-page report."

In column 3, "The scholars said there is no record of Hemmings or her children, other than Madison Hemings ever alleging that Jefferson was the father. Madison made this claim in an 1873 newspaper interview in Ohio"

Jefferson's concern about sexual relations between whites and blacks is revealed in his Query XIV of "Notes on the State of Virginia

Jefferson wrote that while there were some who simply wanted to free the slaves, there was the problem of "what further is to be done with them?" He said that it was one thing for the Romans to free White slaves who, "when made free might mix without staining the blood of his master...when freed (the Negroes) must be removed beyond the reach of mixture."
